The Web

Create a spider web design using ropes. Hang the web across a hallway to form a barrier to going down the hall. Have the group pass through it using all of the opening in the web. Each person must overcome the web. The obvious may not be the answer. Most will think they must dive through the web, but sometimes going around it is the best way. The challenge is to use all of the openings. The tribe will need to work together to accomplish this task.
